OBITUARY.

Sidney W. Fry.

Ex-Assemblyman Sidney W. Fry of Brooklyn died yesterday of lobar pneumonia after a few days' illness at his home, 356 Ninth street, in his thirty-third year. He was admitted to the bar in 1903 and had his law office at 141 Broadway, Manhattan. He became active in Democratic politics in the Twelfth Assembly district and was elected to the Assembly in 1910. Last year he allied himself with the Progressives and ran as their candidate for Assembly, coming in third in the race. He was elected president of the Logan Club when it became a full fledged Bull Moose organization. He was unmarried and is survived by his mother, two sisters and four

Mrs. Charlotte Willa.

Mrs. Charlotte Wills, who lived for more than seventy-six years in Williamsburg, died yesterday in her 90th year at her home, 17 Trautman street. She was born in Germany, June 26, 1814, and came to America when she was 22 years old. She was married to John Willis, a cooper, in 1836, the first custom tailor. He died in 1888. Up till her death Mrs. Willis retained all her faculties, and is now 87 years of age. Her children are John Willis, one daughter, Mrs. Louise C. Freitag, twenty-six grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. Her husband was a very notorious in a suit instituted by her son Fred-

She said that in Paris a working girl could live well on about 80 cents a day, providing there were no strikes. She said that in August only one strike was going wrong, and the number was not so large proportionately, according to the information she had received, as in American cities. French working girls were not so well paid as in America, and were, as a rule, better housekeeper rick to declare her incompetent to manage her own affairs.
